

Colonel Waldron was commissioned in the United States Marine Corps in May 2000, and later earned his Flight Wings in 2002. He has amassed over 2500 flight hours, supporting multiple deployments in support of Operations Enduring Freedom, and Iraqi Freedom and has earned every Instructor Qualification and Certification in the EA-6B.

He was twice selected to serve as an Instructor the Marine Corps' premier Weapons School and has commanded at the Lieutenant Colonel level. Colonel Waldron holds a Bachelor's Degree in Political Science from the University of Rochester, a Master's Degree in National Security and Strategic Studies with distinction from the US Naval War College, and a Master's of Business Administration from New England College.

Colonel Waldron is currently serving as NATO ACT, Multi-Domain Force Development Directorate Experimentation & Wargaming Branch Head.